About Flora Stanischewski

Flora's areas of expertise are employment law, litigation and dispute resolution in commercial law matters.

She advises and represents small and medium companies, group companies and individuals in Switzerland and abroad in all matters of employment law, in particular regarding the drafting of employment contracts and regulations, the termination of employment relationships, discrimination and equality law issues and personnel leasing.

Flora leads the practice group employment law of the Basel bar association. She lectures and publishes in her areas of expertise.

She completed her law studies at the University of Basel (MLaw 2014). In addition, she worked as a research assistant at the University of Basel (2009-2014). In 2014-2016, she worked as a legal trainee at the Civil District Court of Basel-Landschaft East, at a commercial law firm in Basel, and at the Criminal Court of Basel-Stadt, and was admitted to the bar in 2016. In 2019, she obtained her Ph.D. (Dr. iur.) with a thesis in the fields of civil procedure and contract law. From 2016-2018, she worked as a research assistant, tutor and lecturer at the University of Basel and from 2018-2020 as an attorney in a leading commercial law firm.
